

Title: Senior Consultant

We are seeking a Senior Consultant possessing strong analytical, qualitative, and leadership skills with an interest in applying economics, proactively taking charge of project tasks, and leading a small team.

Interested candidates must submit a cover letter, resume, and transcript (official transcripts are not required). Permanent United States work authorization required.

Essential Functions and Responsibilities:

- Applies advanced economic, statistical, and econometric concepts
- Demonstrates advanced competency in Excel and graphics and is a proficient user of statistical software and programming
- Reviews case materials and recognizes areas of further research
- Assumes responsibility for organization of case files and data
- Oversees and conducts an advanced review of the case, its needs, and further analyses, and directs and oversees junior staff in conjunction with senior staff
- Assists in discovery requests and initiates and documents the response process
- Interprets both qualitative and quantitative results in a case and draws relevant conclusions to be presented to case manager
- Audits report/exhibits for accuracy and wholeness with keen attention to detail
- Contributes to drafting final work product including writing and designing tables and exhibits
- Conducts communications with clients professionally and clearly and effectively communicates with peers and junior and senior staff
- Mentors junior staff to advance the development of their careers

Desired Skills and Experience:

- Master's degree in economics or a related field with some relevant work experience, or
- Bachelor's degree in economics or a related field with significant relevant work experience

Monument Economics offers a comprehensive benefits package, including company-sponsored health, dental, and vision insurance; paid leave; 401(k) retirement program which the company funds generously. Senior staff are eligible for performance-based bonuses and professional growth opportunities.

Only finalists will be contacted.